

zarathustra

Now rain falls all over the road
And it looks so very tired
But still straight and forward Though a lot of cars passed here

Hey, where did you go?
Your smile was sweet as cherry
And I loved you so Now I'm a shadow of the feeling I bury

I could read your mind though you were miles away Then I could see in your eyes that you knew when we denied it the very next day

Now rain falls all over the road
But the water will shower my brain Maybe we'll meet somewhere some day again without gifts causing nothing but pain

Copyright Per Bronco Karlsson. All rights reserved.

www.perbroncokarlsson.com